Disaster Assistance Available for Small Businesses

Sacramento, CA – Small, non-farm businesses in 19 Texas counties may now apply for low-interest disaster loans from the U. S. Small Business Administration (SBA). These disaster loans offset economic losses because of reduced revenues caused by excessive rain, flooding, hail, high winds, lightning and tornadoes that occurred in the following four primary Texas counties from March 29 through March 30, 2007, announced Alfred E. Judd, Director of SBA’s Disaster Field Operations Center - West.

Primary Texas counties:

Coryell                      Ellis                              Lampasas                      Navarro

Neighboring Texas counties:

Bell                              Bosque                              Burnet                              Dallas                              Freestone
Hamilton                      Henderson                              Hill                              Johnson                              Kaufman
Limestone                      McLennan                              Mills                              San Saba                              Tarrant

Small businesses may qualify for Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDLs) of up to $1.5 million to help meet financial obligations and operating expenses which could have been met had the disaster not occurred. “Eligibility for these working capital loans is based on the financial impact of the disaster only and not on any actual property damage. These loans have an interest rate of 4%, a maximum term of 30 years, and are restricted to small businesses without the financial ability to offset the adverse impact without hardship,” Judd said.

By law, SBA makes EIDLs available when the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture designates an agricultural disaster. Secretary Mike Johanns declared this disaster at the request of Governor Rick Perry.

Businesses primarily engaged in farming or ranching are not eligible for SBA disaster assistance. Agricultural enterprises should contact the Farm Services Agency (FSA) about the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) assistance made available by the Secretary’s declaration.

The deadline to apply for these loans is February 20, 2008.
